If you are interested in obtaining Smartmusic for your child at home, Smartmusic is available at <http://smartmusic.com> as a school sponsored subscription. Use your web browser and go to Smartmusic.com. On the home page, enter the following code where it says "Enter Your Code": nmsbands08 Click Go and the site will bring you to a checkout page. The cost is $30/year. The smartmusic microphone is necessary. You do not need any of the other accessories except the microphone. The microphone adapter is necessary if you are using a macintosh computer. Go through the checkout process and pay for the subscription. You can download the application from the website if you have high speed internet, or order a CD Rom. Please be sure to read the system requirements information before ordering. I have set aside 20 subscriptions so if the website tells you they are all used up, let me know and I will order more. When you have installed Smartmusic, it will ask you to activate the subscription. To use the program, your child will log in as they do in school to get their assignments.

If you have given your email address for your child to use as a login for their Smartmusic login name, you will need to use that same email and password to create an account.

There are many other features of Smartmusic that students can access. They do not need to log in to play through all of the exercises in the band books, plus solos and jazz studies that are found in the program.
